

5 Signs Your Local Business Is Leaving AI Money on the Table

A one-page check for owners who want growth — not more busywork.
If two or more sound familiar, a small AI fix can usually pay for itself.

01 Leads wait overnight for a reply

Web forms and texts sit until morning. By then, many buyers have booked someone faster.

02 You disappear from social for weeks

Posting only when you remember means locals forget you — consistency beats polish.

03 Your offer is hard to explain in one sentence

If a stranger can't repeat what you sell, ads and posts won't convert either.

04 You answer the same FAQ every day

Hours, pricing basics, "are you open?" — repeating that by hand steals time from real customers.

05 You have no simple next step after interest

Likes and "maybe later" die without a clear book-a-call, quote, or visit path.

Next step (free):

Book a one-hour intro with Karmic Futures. We'll map which sign is costing you most — and whether a light AI fix is worth it now.
karmicfutures.com · Free Saturday workshop · Practical AI for local growth